Vision

To preserve indigenous knowledge, empower vulnerable children, and bridge ancient wisdom with modern innovation through education and technology.

Mission

To build a sustainable learning sanctuary that combines computer science, ancestral heritage, and multilingual translation, starting with Yoruba, and expanding to other indigenous communities.

Core Objectives

- Provide free tech-based education to vulnerable and underserved children.
- Digitally preserve and teach the Yoruba language, the 256 Odu Ifá, and other ancestral systems.
- Translate and teach all academic subjects and professional courses (e.g., English, Mathematics, Physics, Chemistry, Computer Science) in Yoruba.
- Translate global languages (e.g., Chinese, German, English) directly into Yoruba.
- Build and operate a prefab, modular learning center in Simawa.

- Empower local communities through skill acquisition, truth-telling, and cultural pride.

Flagship Project: The Ancestral Codex School

A prefabricated educational institution with two integrated tracks:

1. Tech & Innovation
Programming, digital literacy, artificial intelligence, and web/mobile development.
 2. Ancestral Studies & Yoruba Medium Curriculum
Ifá literacy, translation of all major subjects into Yoruba, cultural preservation, and spiritual empowerment.

Inspiration

RJB Foundation was birthed from a vision to heal communities through remembrance, language, and access. In a world dominated by colonial languages and systems, we dare to teach physics in Yoruba, because intelligence is not linguistic. It's ancestral.

Founder Profile

Moshood Onabanji – Self-taught full-stack developer, spiritual visionary, and founder of RJB World. After personal loss and hardship, he's channeling his healing into creating access, empowerment, and truth for others.

Join Us

This is more than a school, it's a portal. A place where children don't just learn about their world but learn in their world. Where tech meets tradition, and where dreams are born in code and carved in culture.

Let's raise a generation rooted in wisdom, empowered by code.
